DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-3, 5-10, 12-17, 19, and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Boie et al. (U.S. Patent 6,340,008).

Boie et al. disclose controlling an electromagnetic actuator comprising:

- an electromagnetic actuator 1 for actuating a cylinder valve 2 of a piston-type internal combustion engine (column 1, lines 7-9, column 4, lines 61-62);
- a pair of electromagnets consisting of a closing magnet 3 and an opening magnet 4 to move armature 5 between two end positions (column 4, lines 62-65);
- a pair of springs 7, 8 (column 4, lines 65-66) designed to hold the armature 5 in the center position when the electromagnets are not activated (column 5, lines 22-27);
- an engine control unit 9 controlling valve actuation as a function of operating data such as load, rpm, temperature, etc. (column 1, lines 35-51, column 5, lines 30-33);
- applying a current and voltage during a first period beginning at the start of the release of the armature to influence the initial speed of the armature (abstract, column 5, lines 62-66, column 6, lines 43-47);

- sensing actual values of armature movement and comparing to a predetermined target window and making voltage corrections through closed-loop control through all regions A, B, C, D, and E of armature movement (column 7, lines 3-15, lines 20-30, lines 45-50).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 4, 11, and 18 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed 7 October 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

5. Applicant argues that the Boie reference does not teach or suggest applying a brake to an armature according to a load condition of the armature and in response to a release of the armature (page 3, first full paragraph, page 4, lines 1-2). Examiner disagrees. The invention of Boie includes controlling the armature through different regions A, B, C, D, and E to include immediately after release of the armature all the way through capturing at the other end. Applicant asserts on page 4, second full paragraph, that a brake is applied in the Boie reference only during capturing as the armature approaches the target window, but clearly Boie defines target windows in all regions of armature movement and controls (including braking) the speed of armature movement based on external influences such as cylinder pressures and speed of valve movement (column 3, lines 35-60). Applicant also claims control of the armature based on a load condition of the armature, and defines such as a load condition of the valve based on engine speed  $N_e$  and intake pipe pressure  $P_b$  or other parameters like a throttle valve and temperature of coils of the electromagnets (see specification, page 9, lines 17-24). This defined load condition of the armature is satisfied by the Boie reference (column 1, lines 35-51, column 5, lines 30-33). In response to applicant's arguments regarding claims 2, 9, and 16 on page 4, second to last paragraph, the Boie reference is valid for braking forces throughout all regions of armature movement as detailed above.

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
